Hispanic 100 Praises President Trump's Labor Secretary Appointee

San Clemente, CA- It was announced today that President Trump has appointed a new Labor Secretary nominee, former National Labor Relations Board member, Alexander Acosta. The Chairman of the Hispanic 100, Mario Rodriguez, released the following statement:

“As a member of the Hispanic community, I applaud President Trump’s recent appointee for Labor Secretary. I feel that Mr. Acosta is a strong, tactical, and qualified choice that will bring both extensive experience and knowledge to President Trump’s cabinet, while effectively representing our culturally diverse Nation.”

“As an organization, we will continue to support the best candidates for key cabinet positions, and feel that Mr. Acosta is an excellent choice.”

Former Attorney General of Puerto Rico, and Hispanic 100 Advisory Council Member, Jose Fuentes added, “It is extremely important to have a qualified Latino in the White House, as it opens the pathway for cultural acceptance and diversity within this great country. I, for one, am greatly satisfied with President Trump’s recent choice, and look forward to seeing a successful cabinet.”

The Hispanic 100 was established to develop and promote leadership within and from the Hispanic community and to advance free-enterprise principles through advocacy and educational activities that impact the Hispanic population as it relates to the overall social and economic good.
